Message from Principal:

Dear Madina Academy Faculty and Staff,

Welcome to the 2023-2024 school year! I am thrilled to welcome you back to Madina Academy. One of our most important jobs at Madina Academy is to advocate for each child, get to know their interests, and support them during these pivotal years of education.

Our focus is to enable the success of each student by providing the finest instruction and support necessary for academic achievement. Our students are taught respect, responsibility, resilience, and excellence. We will celebrate their successes, hold them to high standards, encourage them, and let them know they are valued at Madina Academy.

Most importantly, an excellent education is impossible without collaboration between students, parents, and staff. I firmly believe every child can excel and that the partnership between home and school builds confidence in students to use their powers to shape their future and the future of our community, country, and even the world. Our goal should be to over communicate with our stakeholders to ensure they are filled with information regarding their child at Madina Academy.

Please know that my door is always open to you ;however appointments are highly suggested. I heartily welcome your conversation and input throughout this year. Let us always keep our students as the primary focus of our work.

I look forward to celebrating our collective accomplishments during the school year.

Kind regards,

Dr. Cooper

The Mission of Madina Academy is to provide an education that is rooted in Islamic faith and ideals and is based upon the noblest Islamic traditions. This education will in turn produce young men and women of sound Islamic character. CLASSROOM MANAGEMENT

The beginning of a new school year is a critical time for effective classroom management to be set in place. They begin promptly, conduct activities at a reasonable pace, give students constructive, real-life assignments, and provide specific explanations and expectations.

"Right or wrong, accurate or not, your reputation will precede you." (Harry Wong)

Establishing the Class Climate the First Week

- Establish your class procedures beginning the first day (e.g., when to sharpen pencils, how to be recognized by the teacher during the class period, etc.:
- Make certain that you have books for the students to use on the first day. Don't worry about your reading/writing center on the first day because you must establish the importance of your class procedures and then put them to work.
- We stress not putting desks in straight rows but make certain that all students can focus their eyes on you during instruction.
- Display our class rules in a prominent place. Post the heading (of paper) procedures in a prominent place.
- Have a consistent place for the essential learning of the day, daily class outline, homework. It is important that you constantly reinforce your procedure during the first week. The first couple of days, you may want to review those procedures with the class.

Effective Teachers are READY

- Effective teachers have their classrooms ready. (Classroom has a warm, positive climate that is work-oriented.)
- Effective teachers have their work well-planned and ready each day. (The desks, books, papers, assignments, and materials are ready when the students enter.)
- Effective teachers have themselves ready each day. (The teacher has a warm, positive attitude and has positive expectations that all students will succeed.)

Habits of Effective Teachers

1. Be prepared for class. Ten seconds of idle time can develop into ten minutes of problems.
2. Make your assignments reasonable and clear.
3. Be a good and neat dresser. Be businesslike. Be friendly.
4. Be prepared for the unexpected.
5. Keep rules to a minimum. Too many rules have no real purpose.
6. Be consistent for 180 school days.
7. Never punish the entire class for the actions of a few.
8. Never say anything to a student that you would not say in the presence of his parents.
9. Never humiliate a student, alone or in front of others.
10. Do not be afraid to apologize.
11. Keep parents informed. Use the phone. Let your parents work with you.
12. Never argue with a student in front of the class. The odds are 25 to 1 that you'll win.
13. Don't see and hear everything.
14. Be enthusiastic. It's contagious.
15. Do not be a screamer. A barking teacher does nothing but make noise.
16. Keep administrators informed when dealing with problem students.

Discipline Non-Negotiables:

- Treat students like you want to be treated.
- Acknowledge your mistakes.
- Students are always supervised.
- No profanity used towards or in the presence of students.
- Address the action, not the student.
- No yelling or beating.
- Establish and implement school and class procedures.
- Each teacher's class is valuable.
- We believe that extensive knowledge and application of content and pedagogy and the building of effective educator-student relationships improve discipline.

Management & Student Conduct

Classroom management can be the difference between a superior teacher and a poor teacher. Even teachers who are well prepared for teaching the day's objectives will not succeed without a plan to ensure the procedure they want to have followed in the classroom. Classroom management is not simply a discipline plan; it is a well-communicated management plan to help reduce discipline problems. The suggestions here are intended to help the teacher build a climate or culture in his/her classroom where students can work, learn, belong and find success.

Characteristics of a Well-Managed Classroom

(Taken from The First Days of School by Harry Wong)

1. Students are deeply involved with their work, especially with academic, teacher-led instruction.
2. Students know what is expected of them and are generally successful.
3. There is little wasted time.
4. The climate of the classroom is work-oriented, but relaxed and pleasant.

Student Classroom Procedures

Procedures are "how we do things in this class." You will need to establish and teach procedures for things like...

- What do I do when I enter the room?
- How and when do we go to the restroom?
- How do I hand in papers?
- What do I do when you are absent?
- What do I do in case of all emergency drills?
- What do I do if I need help?
- When may I sharpen my pencil?
- What do I do when I need to ask a question?
- What do I do when I finish an assignment?

The teacher teaches procedures and rehearses them. For example, when a student bolts out of his seat the moment the bell rings without waiting for you to dismiss class, he has not followed a procedure. You should ask, "What is the correct procedure?" and then have the student return to his seat and practice the procedure. Do not feel that you have to scold, lecture, or yell when students do not follow procedures. Fussing will not make the student reform anyway. Just as parents have to teach and reteach their children to say, "thank you", teachers have to teach and reteach procedures. In fact, you may have to spend a great deal of time at the beginning of the year teaching procedures. But a classroom where procedures have been taught well will have more uninterrupted teaching and learning time. Students who follow procedures have learned a valuable life lesson. Please examine all class procedures to ensure that you are making the best of the instructional day.

Examples of time wasters:

- Writing spelling words X times each.

- Knowledge level board work/ worksheets.
- Coloring sheets/cutting and pasting.
- Waiting on all students to finish an assignment with no instructions.
- Having students copy all work from transparency, board or textbooks.
- Writing or reading materials that are not relevant to students.

Classroom Management Ideas

- Establish a routine and follow it. Students need to know what to do, how to do it, and when to do it. Students like routines and tend to become disruptive when they are not busy.

Classroom Interventions

- Feel comfortable with yourself, with Time Out in the classroom, your students, and with your content. Time Out in another classroom Students feel secure with a confident Conflict Resolution Instruction teacher.
- Expect your students to conduct Anger Management Instruction themselves in socially acceptable Grade Level Review ways. Students tend to live up to Office Referral expectations.
- Present lessons that are interesting, relevant, and at an appropriate level of instruction. Material that is too difficult or too easy will cause students to lose interest and become disruptive.
- Vary your methods of presenting material.
- Always be prepared. Students will take advantage of the opportunity if you are not.
- Prevent problems before they happen.
- Show that you genuinely respect your students. Give them evidence through your actions: listening to their ideas and concerns, having friendly chats with them, smiling often, finding something to laugh about, accepting them, and giving lots of encouragement and praise.
- Give your students love and understanding so that they can learn to give it in return.
 - Discussed during a classroom meeting.
 - Contact with parents (continuous)
 - Positive Communication
 - Role Playing
 - Student Conference
 - Weekly Reports/Parent's Signature
 - Community Resources (Mentors, Adopters)
 - Tutoring
 - Peer Tutors
 - Paired Learning
 - Student Contracts
 - Time out in the classroom
 - Time out in another classroom

- Conflict resolution instruction
- Peer mediation
- Anger management instruction
- Grade level review
- Office referral

SCHOOL WIDE DISCIPLINE PLAN

The purpose of this plan is to have a fair and consistent way in which to deal with students who misbehave and recognize students with positive behavior.

Philosophy Statement

- Madina Academy is defined by a positive school climate that supports social and academic growth for all students. Positive school-wide behavior management is necessary if learning is to take place. Positive school-wide behavior management requires a discipline plan, applying successful interventions, and training students in procedures.
- We must provide guidance to help children make appropriate behavior choices. Our expectations of students' behavior must be taught to students and reviewed frequently.
- In handling behavior issues, we must keep in mind the importance of building strong relationships with students. How we treat one student can influence our relationship with all students. Therefore, we must handle all situations in a caring and professional manner.

School Procedures, Entering School

- Madina Academy's hours of operation are 8:00 am to 3:30 pm.
- All teachers assigned morning duty should arrive at school no later than 7:45 AM and setup area.
- The door must open at 7:45 A.M.
- Students may have access to the event hall ONLY.
- Please do not allow any students to leave the assigned area (No Supervision).
- Teachers monitoring students in the event hall remind students to stay silent and listen to the morning announcements: Supervising entails an alert and attentive supervision: patrolling around, within, and in close proximity to students, making eye contact with students, and providing adequate intervention for misbehaviors.
- Preparing for progress reports for the academic year.
- Students arriving at school after 8:00 a.m. will use the front door only and will be marked tardy by their 1st period teacher and a parent will be required to sign the student in.

- Once students are dismissed from the event hall, please escort your students to your class.
- If a neighboring teacher is not present yet, please help escort her students to her room and supervise them until she arrives (let the principal know of any unsupervised students).
- Do not allow students to stand at your door (with or without you).
- All teachers will check uniforms during the 1st period. Issue uniform violation slips to students and return the other half of the slip to Ms. Mariah.

School Procedures, Closing of School

- Dismissal time is from 3:30 PM — 3:45 PM.
- All teachers on duty should remain in the event hall until all her students have been dismissed.
- We will follow a silent dismissal procedure.
- At 3:25 pm all teachers will start escorting their students to the event hall. Have your students sit in their designated area and pass out the day's designated reading.
 - All students in grades K-3 will have to sit quietly as they are asked to reflect over the day.
 - All students in grades 4-9 will be assigned different articles, hadiths, pages of the Quran, etc. reading each week to be read during dismissal time.
- Once a parent arrives, we will call the student via the microphone for the student to be dismissed and escorted to his/her parent.
- Once all your students are dismissed you are free to leave the event hall.
- Students who are not picked up by 3:45 pm will be escorted by their teacher to the after-school care room;
- Do not leave students unattended after school. Make sure that if you are helping a student after school, you ensure that the student has been picked up by a parent before you leave.
- No students are allowed to walk throughout the building without a teacher.

School Procedures Assemblies

- All students and teachers are required to attend all assemblies, unless instructed otherwise by the administration.
- Lock your classroom door.
- Students will enter the assembly area with the classroom teacher leading the line.
- Make sure students are not talking upon entering, during, or leaving the assembly.
- Ensure that all students are sitting up straight and being attentive. Teachers are to remain and monitor classes in the event hall.

School-Wide Rules for Students

- Be courteous. Keep your hands, feet, and negative remarks to yourself.

- Follow directions the first time given.
- Always be on time and prepared.
- Respect yourself, others, and school property.

School-Wide Classroom Procedures

- Hall Passes:

During instructional time, NO students should be in the hallway during the first fifteen and last fifteen minutes of any class period. Hall passes should not be given to students to run errands for the teacher, to run personal errands for a student, or to get school supplies from a friend.

- Materials:

Students are expected to come prepared daily with your text, workbook, folder, homework, and writing utensils. If a student is not prepared, he/she will lose participation points.

- Attendance:

At no time should a student remain in another teacher's class unless prior arrangement is made. All attendance must be taken daily for each block.

If you are covering a class for a teacher, please ensure that all attendance is submitted. You must keep a hard copy of your attendance record with you at all times.

Attendance records must be accurate and updated daily and ready to be submitted to the principal upon request.

- Warm up:

Everyday there will be a brief warm-up activity designed for review or introduction to new material. Immediately upon students' arrival, they must check the board and follow the instructions. Once students have finished the warm-up, they are to review the material covered during the previous class period. If students do not complete the work within the allotted time, they will not receive credit.

- Dismissal:

YOU are the only person who has authority to dismiss your class, not the bell nor a clock. The teacher will dismiss the class when the students are finished. Please do not start packing up early. When the teacher is ready and students are ready, the teacher will dismiss the student. With student cooperation, there is no reason for anyone to ever be late to a following class.

INSTRUCTION HANDBOOK

In planning, teachers should use a variety of teaching strategies as well as a variety of assessment tools. Learning should be active and involved. Quality work should be emphasized and displayed. Lesson planning and delivery should ensure the use of all class time. Off-task time is detrimental to instructional success. Teachers are expected to be in place to greet students and provide instruction from the beginning of class. Students are not to be left unsupervised.

Creating the Environment: Preparing the Classroom

Take the time to create a warm and inviting environment in your classroom. Students, even in high school, like unique and colorful rooms. They are turned off by bare walls and blank areas. A classroom needs character. A young person needs to feel at home in his/her classroom. Oftentimes, teachers see more of these students than their parents do. Creating comfort zones is a tremendous help for all involved. Here are a few suggestions:

- 1) Make sure that your room is not cluttered. All materials should be in some type of order.
- 2) Make a technology center where students can have access to tape/DVD players and computers. Students can experience "books on tape/DVD," listen to instructional audiotape, or use computers for various purposes.
- 3) Make a reading center where students can have access to magazines, textbooks, and reading materials, handouts, and critical thinking activities related to the class.
- 4) Provide tutoring corners where students who need to catch up on work alone can have the privacy to do so.
- 5) Eventually, put up pictures of the students in action. Photographs provide a real sense of identity and students love to see themselves in pictures.
- 6) Hang attractive and informative posters from which students can learn.
- 7) Eventually, display student work and projects in and outside the classroom.

Bloom's Taxonomy (From Bloom, et al., 1956)

As teachers we tend to ask questions in the "knowledge" category 80% to 90% of the time. These questions are not bad but using them all the time is. Try to utilize higher order questions. These questions require much more "brain power" and a more extensive and elaborate answer.

Below are the six question categories as defined by Bloom.

- KNOWLEDGE
 - Remembering.
 - Memorizing.
 - Recognizing.
 - Recalling

identification and

- Recall of information
 - Who, what, when, where how...?
 - Describe

- COMPREHENSION

- Interpreting.
- Translating from one medium to another.
- Describing in one's own words.
- Organization and selection of facts and ideas
 - Retell...

- APPLICATION

- Problem solving.
- Applying information to produce some result.
- Use of facts, rules and principles
 - How is...an example of...?
 - How is...related to...?
 - Why is...significant?

- ANALYSIS

- Subdividing something to show how it is put together.
- Finding the underlying structure of communication.
- Identifying motives.
- Separation of a whole into component parts
 - What are the parts or features of...?
 - Classify...according to...
 - Outline/diagram...
 - How does...compare/contrast with...?
 - What evidence can you list for...?

- SYNTHESIS

- Creating a unique original product that may be in verbal form or may be a physical object.

- Do you agree...?
- What do you think about...?
- What is the most important...?
- Place the following in order of priority...
- How would you decide about...?
- What criteria would you use to assess...?

In addition to the above suggestions, the items below must be posted in your classroom and raised daily.

- Warm-up/Bell work
 - School rules
 - Standards for your content area large enough for students to see.
 - Classroom rules/consequences/rewards
 - Directed teaching model.
 - School mission and vision
 - Learning by design
 - MCS code of conduct
 - Emergency plan
 - Instructional lesson labels on chalkboard/whiteboard
1. Essential Understanding -- a measurable goal, what the student should be able to understand when they leave class. Example: The learner will understand how to . . .
 2. Essential Questions — specific, open-ended, thought-provoking questions that probe factual and conceptual levels of understanding. Example: Level 1: What are variables? Level 2: How are equations used in everyday life? Or Level 2: Why are steps important when solving equations?
 3. Activities/Practice — actual assignment(s) given to students to complete for a grade.
 4. Assessment — a method used to determine students' level of understanding. It's an ongoing process. Also, it allows the teacher to know whether to re-teach a lesson or move to the next lesson. An evaluation happens at the end of a lesson and the assessment is graded. If assessments are needed, refer to the strategies checklist below.
 5. Homework — an assignment given to reinforce or prepare students for future content.
 6. Standards — MCS standards, write the number(s) and Standards for Transitions, write the topic/content.

Preparing the Halls

In addition to preparing the classroom environment, we will also prepare the overall school environment. The halls should bloom with the knowledge obtained in the classroom. To ensure that this is accomplished, six weeks projects and DATA will be displayed in the hallways. Standards addressed, essential understanding, and essential questions and a brief explanation of the project should also be included in the display. Rubrics are required.

Creating the Environment: Seating

Seating arrangements make a big difference in the classroom. During the first week, it is easy to use alphabetical order until you make an official seating chart. In general, students have a possessive feeling about their desks. They want to know where they will be sitting every day. Without a seating chart, valuable class time will be wasted settling disputes. It is important that seating be enforced and standardized. Remember that seating is functional, changing according to instruction. There is no need to keep one seating pattern all year. The following are some varieties of seating patterns.

Traditional Rows

Desks are in straight rows facing the front of class work well for lectures, tests, individual work, or direct instructions. The traditional manners tend to keep the class well focused.

Group Seating

The next most common form of seating is pushing desks together to form groups. The benefit of group seating is obvious -- it allows students to focus together on work. Some teachers have permanent group seating, seeing the benefit of teamwork on a daily basis.

Divided Rows

In this variation of long rows, desks are formed in two wings, facing each other. This allows for a middle area that the teacher can use for various purposes.

Circular Seating

In this pattern, desks are formed into a circle. This allows for a "round table" effect, which is good for reading and discussions. Also, this pattern might be a good idea for class quiz shows and games, where contestants are in the middle. The teacher can circulate around the room.

Creating the Environment: Establishing Routines

In the elementary, middle and high school classroom, it is extremely important that you establish some sort of routine. This increases efficiency because students know what materials to bring to class and what to expect. Successful teachers tend to incorporate a number of routines.

Warmups

A routine that gets students on task before the bell rings is a pre-class exercise or warm-up. Warm-ups literally get the brain ready for the day's lesson, just like stretching exercises before a game. As students work on their warm-ups, walk around and see how they are doing. This will ensure accountability.

Warm-ups may be different and suited to each teaching style, but has a set of common denominators:

- They do not take longer than 10 — 15 minutes (avg. 5 min)

- They are challenging exercises that have relevance to past or future lessons.
- They are not "busy work" but quality thinking exercises.
- They usually are not graded, but answers are discussed in class.

Some common examples of warm-up exercises are:

- Questions and Answers
- Journals
- Vocabulary
- Creative Writing
- Problem Solving

Syllabus

Planning a lesson is different for every teacher. Furthermore, teachers organize their lesson plans and curricula in different ways. Some teachers prefer keeping lesson plan spiral books, while others keep notebooks, and still others keep lesson plans in file folders. All teachers will be required to submit a lesson plan weekly for the entire week using the Madina Academy lesson plan format.

Making a Syllabus/Keeping a Calendar

Teachers are required to keep detailed lesson plans for each day of teaching. Sometimes these can be so time-consuming that one loses sight of the big picture. All teachers should take time to reflect on the big picture and plan their objectives for at least a nine-week period. Keep in mind that a syllabus is flexible and can change.

Keeping a Notebook

A good routine to establish with students is good organization. As a teacher, you will have to ask yourself, "How will students organize and retain information in my class?" For most teachers, this means a three-ring binder.

The notebook is probably the best tool for students because it keeps working in sections, has pockets, and can hold spirals and supply bags.

Cornell Note-Taking is the method of organization that works best for our students. Please use this method in your classroom.

Many teachers find textbooks to be useful and effective tools. However, some advanced teachers will not even crack open textbooks because they have gathered their own materials. Nevertheless, most teachers will find it useful to use textbooks some of the time. Please consider textbooks as a valuable resource, but not the only resource.

How to Make the "Boring" Fun

Successful teachers learn how to go beyond the textbook and distill the core elements or objectives of the lesson. The master teacher knows that the text does not teach the class -- the teacher does. Teachers have developed a variety of techniques to engage the students' interests. These techniques tend to drive home information and get students excited about school. Here are some examples:

- Quiz Shows
- Dramatic Interpretation
- Costumes
- Audio-Visuals
- Manipulatives
- Simulations
- Oral Readings
- Word Games/Puzzles

High Level Thinking

It is not enough to teach just the basics. Society demands more emphasis on high-level thinking. Bloom's Taxonomy is the standard that will be used here at MADINA ACADEMY. Extending questions by students into larger issues, demanding reasoning skills, asking for judgments, and creating high-level projects are part of every successful teacher's curriculum.

Learning Styles

The theory of learning styles can be generally summarized as follows:

- All students have the capacity to learn.
- Students can learn the same things by different methods.
- Recognizing how a student learns is critical to success.

The implications for the teacher are that one must be able to recognize how a student learns best and adjust to that style. Teachers are encouraged to determine student's learning styles during the first three weeks of school.

Reading in the Content Area

In elementary, middle and high school, every teacher is a reading teacher. It is impossible to overstate the importance of reading in the students brain. It is the classroom teacher's responsibility to motivate students to read. This can be done by various ideas such as reading books, magazine articles, or the newspaper. The idea is to get every child into the habit of reading.

Closure

Though the ideas presented in this instructional handbook are research-based strategies that work, they are not all inclusive. Adding needed elements to these to individualize your classroom ensures success for you and your students.

HOMEWORK POLICY

Homework is defined as meaningful and quality work assigned to students that is intended to be completed during non-instructional hours. It is the policy of this school system that no more than ten percent (10%) of each nine weeks grade be based on the evaluation of homework assignments. Middle and upper school teachers should work together to create homework and testing schedules in order to avoid over assigning homework. Homework should:

- Reinforce principles, skills, concepts and information taught in the classroom.
- Be meaningful, appropriate to the ability and maturity level of students, well explained, and clearly understood by students.
- Stimulate creative, logical and critical thought.
- Provide an opportunity for the creative application of material mastered in the classroom.
- Teach the student self-discipline and self-motivation regarding the responsibility and effort required to complete assignments.
- Promote independent in-depth study of the chosen topics.
- Provide opportunities for enrichment activities.
- Provide wise and orderly use of time.
- Never be given as punishment.

GRADING AND ASSESSMENT

Grading Scale

	Academic		Conduct
Excellent	A	90-100	Excellent	E
Good	B	80-89	Satisfactory	S
Average	C	70-79	Needs Improvement	N
Below Average	D	60-69	Unsatisfactory	U
Failure	F	Below 60
*Incomplete	I	Not a final grade

Incomplete grades, usually given because of student absences, should be changed to a regular academic grade by the end of the following nine-week period. Incomplete grades are not to be left as final grades. An incomplete grade will be.

changed to reflect the average supported by documentation if the assignments are not completed within the specified time frame.

Maintaining Grade books and Attendance Books

Gradebook and attendance books are legal documents and must be kept by the school for five years.

Please ensure that your grade book includes the following items:

- Marking periods labeled
- Legends marked.
- Dates labeled.
- Attendance marked.
- Nine weeks of calculations listed.
- Semester calculations listed.
- Recording in ink
- Neat
- Legible
- Assessments labeled.
- Conduct grade labeled.

Make-up Assignments

Students shall be permitted the opportunity to make up all work and classroom tests (or their equivalent) missed as a result of an excused or unexcused absence. All work and tests for both excused and unexcused absences should be made up as soon as possible, but no later than a week after the student returns to school. The principal can grant exceptions due to special circumstances or any unusual cause acceptable to the principal. If the student fails to make up the work and tests, the deficiencies shall be averaged with the other grades. Each makeup assignment for unexcused absences shall be marked down one letter grade.

Library Media Center

The media center provides numerous services, material, and print and non-print resources to support the students, faculty and staff of Madina Academy. Teachers are required to bring their classes to the library media center to use materials, for research, or instruction. Please meet with the librarian to schedule and plan your visit.

All teachers should take time to reflect on the big picture and plan their objectives for at least a nine week period. Keep in mind that a syllabus is flexible and can change.

Keeping a Notebook

A good routine to establish with students is good organization. As a teacher, you will have to ask yourself, "How will students organize and retain information in my class?" For most teachers, this means a three-ring binder.

The notebook is probably the best tool for students because it keeps working in sections, has pockets, and can hold spirals and supply bags.

Cornell Note-Taking is the method of organization that works best for our students. Please use this method in your classroom.

Many teachers find textbooks to be useful and effective tools. However, some advanced teachers will not even crack open textbooks because they have gathered their own materials. Nevertheless, most teachers will find it useful to use textbooks some of the time. Please consider textbooks as a valuable resource, but not the only resource.

How to Make the "Boring" Fun

Successful teachers learn how to go beyond the textbook and distill the core elements or objectives of the lesson. The master teacher knows that the text does not teach the class -- the teacher does. Teachers have developed a variety of techniques to engage the students' interests. These techniques tend to drive home information and get students excited about school. Here are some examples:

- Quiz Shows
- Dramatic Interpretation
- Costumes
- Audio-Visuals
- Manipulatives
- Simulations
- Oral Readings
- Word Games/Puzzles

High Level Thinking

It is not enough to teach just the basics. Society demands more emphasis on high-level thinking. Bloom's Taxonomy is the standard that will be used here at MADINA ACADEMY. Extending questions by students into larger issues, demanding reasoning skills, asking for judgments, and creating high-level projects are part of every successful teacher's curriculum.

Learning Styles

The theory of learning styles can be generally summarized as follows:

- All students have the capacity to learn.
- Students can learn the same things by different methods.
- Recognizing how a student learns is critical to success.

The implications for the teacher are that one must be able to recognize how a student learns best and adjust to that style. Teachers are encouraged to determine student's learning styles during the first three weeks of school.

Reading in the Content Area

In elementary, middle and high school, every teacher is a reading teacher. It is impossible to overstate the importance of reading in the student's brain. It is the classroom teacher's responsibility to motivate students to read. This can be done by various ideas such as reading books, magazine articles, or the newspaper. The idea is to get every child into the habit of reading.

Closure

Though the ideas presented in this instructional handbook are research-based strategies that work, they are not all inclusive. Adding needed elements to these to individualize your classroom ensures success for you and your students.

HOMEWORK POLICY

Homework is defined as meaningful and quality work assigned to students that is intended to be completed during non-instructional hours. It is the policy of this school system that no more than ten percent (10%) of each nine weeks grade be based on the evaluation of homework assignments. Middle and upper school teachers should work together to create homework and testing schedules in order to avoid over assigning homework. Homework should:

- Reinforce principles, skills, concepts and information taught in the classroom.
- Be meaningful, appropriate to the ability and maturity level of students, well explained, and clearly understood by students.
- Stimulate creative, logical and critical thought.
- Provide an opportunity for the creative application of material mastered in the classroom.
- Teach the student self-discipline and self-motivation regarding the responsibility and effort required to complete assignments.
- Promote independent in-depth study of the chosen topics.
- Provide opportunities for enrichment activities.
- Provide wise and orderly use of time.
- Never be given as punishment.

Make-up Assignments

Students shall be permitted the opportunity to make up all work and classroom tests (or their equivalent) missed as a result of an excused or unexcused absence. All work and tests for both excused and unexcused absences should be made up as soon as possible, but no later than a week after the student returns to school. The principal can grant exceptions due to special circumstances or any unusual cause acceptable to the principal. If the student fails to make up the work and tests, the deficiencies shall be averaged with the other grades. Each makeup assignment for unexcused absences shall be marked down one letter grade.

Library Media Center

The media center provides numerous services, material, and print and non-print resources to support the students, faculty and staff of Madina Academy. Teachers are required to bring their classes to the library media center to use materials, for research, or instruction. Please meet with the librarian to schedule and plan your visit.
